The Parts That

In our sophomore year at Rainelle High School, the class of 1967 learned the axiom "The whole is equal to the sum of its parts" in plane geometry class. It was a logical, universal concept that anyone could testify to as a practical truth. But the true meaning of this mathematical reality became clear when we faced graduation as a senior class. Then, we remember the parts: students, faculty, classes, activities and athletics; the whole: Rainelle High School. Each is separate and important, but we of the class of '67 also remember another axiom, one to which we have dedicated ourselves in the past few years--"The whole is GREATER than any of its parts."

Foreword

A quiet classroom for study, an excited field for a football game, a noisy hall for fleeting conversation--these constitute vital parts of Rainelle High which yield the sum of education. The first day of school students begin the complex but rapid growth into these diverse portions which they will shape and unify into use for the school and their lives.

Myriad pieces fit into this whole--the seasons, the subjects, and the students. Fall with its crisp, clear weather inspires spirit and optimism for a year full of promise; winter sets the pace for serious study; and spring sends its fever through open windows. New discoveries in academic areas are offered to those who meet the challenge of work and ask only for knowledge from their labor. Languages, sciences, and vocational trades are taught in many forms which can total to make those who master them ready to face their lives with enough insight to seek further. The living component, the students themselves, forms the most vital fractions of the whole. The ambitious scholars looking to college and the vocational students seeking a job strive toward different goals but, graduating together as a class, are unified because they have worked to be useful to themselves and their world.

Academics

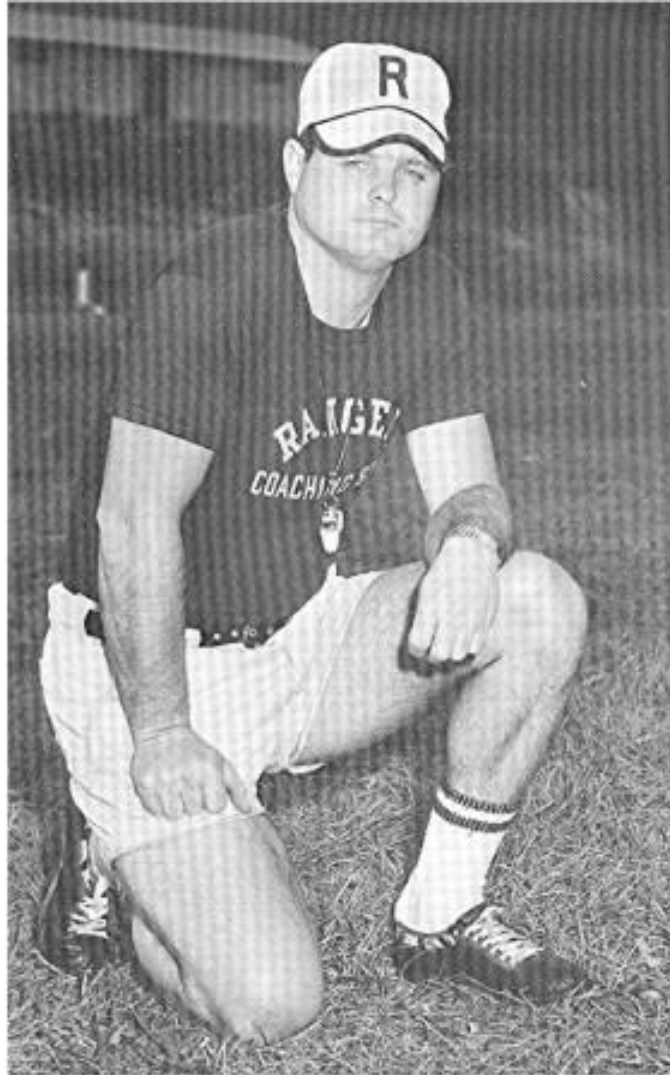

Dedication

At the beginning of a school day, not much can rouse a student from dismal grogginess. But if anything can, it's the sight of a trim, neat, handsome, young coach and social studies teacher, Mr. Hylton. His dark hair and a face always alive with friendly interest, expressed through warm blue eyes and a contagious smile commands the respect and admiration of his students.

As a former graduate you are the symbol of Rainelle High School, the symbol of friendship and belonging. Each student is a part of you, and you are a part of each student. By your friendly personal attitude toward all, you have helped tie our class and school together.

In appreciation of your valuable friendship, we are pleased to dedicate the 1967 annual to Mr. Howard Hylton.

(oh boy!)

As we have completed our years at Rainelle High with Mr. Dale Ocheltree as principal, we wish to acknowledge our earnest appreciation of your able leadership and administration of students, faculty, recreation, and educational growth. Under your guidance Rainelle High has progressed in educational aims, in dignity, and in the general appearance of the institution. We are pleased to credit you with the integrity of our school.

MR. DALE OCHELTRREE
Principal

MR. ARNOLD ANDERSON

MR. DON SMITH

We the Class of 1967 would like to express our sincere appreciation to our class advisors, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Smith. The advisors help juniors and seniors with information pertinent to college suitability. They also keep students up to date with testing necessary for college entrance. They assist in senior activities--enrollment, homeroom, rings, announcements, senior socials, college day and graduation.

*Science corrects
the old creeds.—*

Emerson

Rainelle High offers a well-rounded science program. Sophomores are required to complete one year of biology. Beyond this course, scientific minds can probe into the further mysteries of the natural world through more advanced study in senior science and chemistry.

SENIOR SCIENCE

MRS. JAYNE WICKLINE

*The study of mathematics
cultivates the reason.—*

Tryon Edwards

The math department doesn't give up easily! It bravely offers not only mathematics, algebra, plane geometry, but also solid and trigonometry. Students react differently to these offerings.

For some people the intricacies of mathematical calculation are both easy and enjoyable. These people go on to write books on "How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Exponent."

There are many others, however, who find that the ratio of study to grades is directly proportional to the extent of personal mental capacity to withstand the mounting frustration of perpetually wrong answers.

Occupation is the scythe of time. — Napoleon

With "no hunting" allowed and "pecking" frowned upon, commercial students toil to command the skills of typing along with shorthand and bookkeeping.

MRS. PEGGY WORKMAN

The study of literature nourishes youth. — Cicero

The English department aims to help students develop vocabularies for oral grammatical communication, clear thinking, and effective writing. Required readings give a perspective of literary heritage.

MRS. LEONNE HOLSBERY

MRS. JOANNE LIVESAY

MRS. PEARL KESSLER

A man who is ignorant of foreign languages is ignorant of his own.—Goethe

MR. REXRODE

Students diligently strive to master some degree of a foreign language. German II is offered to those who have completed German I. Aided by tapes in the language labs and classroom drill Mr. Rexrode engrains into even the slowest student at least enough alien vocabulary for "hello" and "goodbye".

Reading maketh a full man.—Bacon

The library is always occupied by at least a few earnest students. Students use the library in their search for required reading and reference theme material. However, the shelves are stocked with magazines and fiction for those who have finished their work or dread the prospect of beginning.

Miss Ratliff capably assists students needing help, and library workers help students check out books.

History
MR. DAVY McCLUNG

History is but the unrolled scroll of prophecy.—Garfield

History is the study of common ideals and goals of civilized man through the ages, and the tyranny of his frequent despotism, as well as the study of his culture. The history department strives to give an awareness of more than mere dates and obscure data.

Davy L. McClung

The wise, for cure, on exercise depend.—Dryden

Attired in the latest style of wrinkled gym suits, students find themselves in a predicament labeled "physical education".

With few exceptions all students are required to take physical education. Football, volleyball, basketball, cageball, physical fitness drill, weight training, gymnastics, and dancing are familiar to the participants as students reap each semester crop of bruises.

"Man must work."—Henry Giles

Surviving burnt batter and the peril of small but lethal needles, girls in home economics exert their energies for the future when they will manage homes. Miss Nolen teaches Vocational Economics.

Seniors

It's rather a shock to realize that after all the years of much lamented "travail", "heavy-laden" with homework and brimming with class activities an irreplaceable part of life is coming to an end. Football games in crisp night air, endless club money-raising projects--all these are part of so many things that will never be forgotten. All the griping and groaning that accompanies tests and themes and reports will pass from memory, believe it or not; seniors will remember only the good, happy, crazy times.

Don't try to tell a junior that there are sixty minutes in an hour--there couldn't be, with thirty hours in a day! Between "doing time" in the bus hall, wading through geometric mazes, compiling history notebooks, and selling at concessions, everyday is busy beyond belief. Rewards come to previous diligence through membership in organizations, participation in band, chorus, and athletic events. Each junior is a working component in the whirl of school activities.

Rainelle High students are justly proud of their band and its presentation at the half-time show and band festivals. An annual Christmas concert, spring concert, county and state band festivals calls for much practice indoors with concert music.

Youth in Government

Mike Reed, elected West Virginia Youth Governor in November addressed the regular legislature and served as Page in February. Mike will attend the Youth Governor's Conference in Washington, D. C. in June.

Governor Reed, pictured with Legislators Dorothy Toney, Reporter; Steve Shreve, House; Mary Thomas, Senator; Linn Holloway, Youth Director Charleston YMCA and Tom Bayes, Senator.

"Democracy must be learned by each generation."

The YMCA's youth and Government Program is a teen-age activity which has prestige and status in the eyes of youth. It is an educational training experience in state government which began in 1936. High school Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y members are deeply involved in the process of determining areas of community need and developing those appropriate for legislation at the state level into the forms of a bill or resolution. Prepared at pre-legislative training conferences for their share in the legislative experience, the young people elect their own state officials and cumulate their year's work with two to three days at Youth Legislatures meetings in the legislative chambers of the state capitol. Their earnest, skilled efforts as youth senators, representatives or elected officials, thrill observers in committee and legislative sessions where bills are debated and acted upon.

A number of bills originally proposed and passed by Youth Legislators have subsequently been introduced and enacted into law by the adult legislatures.

MANAGERS

Bob Kirk, Garry Dixon, Jimmy Lemon

It was a great season on the gridiron for Rainelle High School. Coach Zopp who has a knack for turning out winning teams, tutored the Rangers to an impressive showing, winning five, losing four and tied one. Rangers scored 147 points with victories over Crichton, Ronceverte, Meadow Bridge, Rupert and White Sulphur. In the conference Play-Off the Rangers took advantage of what size was available, coupled with terrific speed and an aggressive desire, tied Lewisburg.

J.W. it looks as though you will have the size to make an athlete so discipline your life (training & studies) and work hard. Best of luck, Coach Zopp
